

INTERMED XP

As 2012 wanes, Intermed XP in South Carolina took time to celebrate the annual feast here of Thanksgiving and reflect on the place of gratitude in our lives.

To our longtime, faithful associates as well as to our newer and more recent customers and partners, we express our thanks. Despite strife and suffering in many global spots, the pleasures of horsemanship, camel-racing and so many other activities endure. We have been able to assist many in the care for their animals and other projects- operating in a relatively serene and unperturbed business climate. The confidence and cordiality that mark our relations with you remain a source of satisfaction which we pause to appreciate.

As we approach the quarter and year's end, we note that whenever we have felt useful to you, both your satisfaction and ours have increased. For that, we are thankful.

The Editor

